MR. JUSTICE GRAY: "After ten years' use of the former edition, there seems to me to be no better book on the subject."

MR. JUSTICE BREWER: "I have had for years copies of the prior editions and have found them very helpful and satisfactory, and I can but think from the examination I have been able to make of the present volumes, brought down as they are to date, that I shall find them even more valuable than the others."

HON. W. K. TOWNSEND, of the Second Circuit: "The third edition of your Federal Practice is admirable. During the ten years that I have been on the bench I have had occasion constantly to refer to the second edition of your book and have always found it helpful. In these latter years, however, I have felt the need of some more recent discussion of the decisions concerning the jurisdiction of the Federal Courts and Bankruptcy. Not only have you thoroughly and, as it seems to me, with accuracy digested the existing law on these new questions, but I notice that you have enlarged the scope and therefore the usefulness of the work by reference to the leading cases in the various states on points of equity pleading and practice. It seems to me, therefore, that the work now not only furnishes a guide to the Federal practitioner, but that it may well take the place of such works as Daniel and Mitford for practitioners in the state courts of equity."

HON. WM. H. SEAMAN, of the Sixth Circuit: "The earlier editions were of constant service, and I find the work carried forward with notes and additions which make it quite invaluable. The treatment of appellate provisions and of Bankruptcy and Court of Claims matters is valuable and comprehensive, while the great feature is the concise and accurate treatment of equity practice. I have just had occasion to cite it in C. C. A. opinion to be handed down."
